

So what does business and community support mean to our school?

At our school, business and community support raise the morale of our staff, help our students achieve more, increase our student attendance rates, and create positive public opinion. It also shows everyone involved that they are committed to education and to the future leaders of America.

Business partners and community organizations do all this by supplementing our school's core instructional programs with human and financial resources that enhance learning and learning conditions for all students. In other words, businesses and community organizations help students succeed.
